

JONG VERKENNERS

Géén hindernis is te groot of te ingewikkeld vir dié jong Padvinders nie. Hulle het gister en Saterdag voor Builders Warehouse in die Baal verskeie hindernisse aangedurf en fees gehou ter viering van die Padvinders se 100ste bestaansjaar. Altesaam 28 miljoen jongmense wêreldwyd behoort aan die Scouts. Hier is (van links) Anati Swartbooi, Lance Muller en Christopher Dunderdale, almal 12. Foto: CHARLES PULLEN

Port Elizabeth Express: Wednesday, June 27, 2007

NEWS/N

Scouts celebrate 100th anniversary

THIS year will be a milestone in Scouting history with 28 million young people around the world celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Movement.

To join in the worldwide celebrations, Scouts of the Nelson Mandela Bay Metro staged a Scout Pioneering Extravaganza last weekend at Builders Warehouse. Scouts, leaders and parents worked together to build spectacular structures and an obstacle course to demonstrate the Scouts' creativity and inventiveness with basic equipment like ropes and poles.

Scouts showcased impressive structures and the public could see first-hand how the youngsters went about building. The AlgoaFM Hitmobile added to the fun of the day.

Some of the highlights were a "Shop Dash" and a "Tug of War" between Builders Warehouse Staff and the Scouts. The younger generation could test their agility and speed on the Obstacle Course and Aerial Runway.

One hundred years since its inception, Scouting still prides itself in being the most creative and innovative organisation to help develop young people into dependable adults, with a healthy sense of adventure and fun and a strong commitment to their fellow man.

For more information, contact Martin De Bruyn at 083 463 7598 or visit www.baytobaychallenge.co.za.

Scouts Tessia Westraadt (14) and David Stubbs (13) showed their building skills at Builders Warehouse last weekend during the Scout Pioneering Extravaganza.

Photo: Charles Pullen